custom time interval (in seconds). In addition, you are allowed to limit the number of pictures taken in the automatic mode to a user-defined number. The captured photos can be exported to JPEG or BMP file format. Other important tweaking parameters worth being mentioned enable you to set up the filenames of the output items based on window caption, current date, current time, or number, capture the entire desktop, active window, or window by caption, automatically hide Smartision ScreenCopy's primary panel when taking snapshots, reassign hotkeys which can be used to capture images and turn on the automatic mode, and play preset or user-defined audio files (WAV file format). When it comes to setting up image output parameters, you can change the color depth of BMP files, adjust the JPEG compression quality, as well as resize pictures. A screenshot browser is implemented for helping you preview the captured photos, go to the next or previous item, open the picture via your default viewer, sort files by name or date, copy filename to the clipboard, open the folder where the selected photo is stored, as well as filter snapshots by name or date. In addition, the application lets you create HTML screenshot galleries which may have a custom title, user-defined text message that is shown before/after the images on the HTML pages, maximum number of files, and a preferred background color. At the end of the process you can make the tool show the gallery. Tests have pointed out that smartision ScreenCopy carries out tasks quickly and provides very good output results. It remains light

System Requirements For Smartision ScreenCopy:

All drivers require a copy of the Xbox 360 system software. Once installed, there are several steps that must be followed in order to have the X360 Driver installed correctly. A) The only prerequisite for an X360 driver is that the system on which it will be installed must have an XBOX 360 Arcade or Xbox 360 games console. If the system does not have an XBOX 360, then you will not be able to install an X360 driver. B) If you already have an X360 driver installed, it will not be installed or updated again.
