How to activate Windows 7 ? This problem is faced by many users when they can not use the license keys for Windows 7. And the thing is that in order to activate the system on your computer, you first need to send the system to check the serial number. And you, as you have already guessed, may not have it. So you need to use other activation methods to activate your system. This material describes all possible ways that will help you activate Windows 7. Windows 7 Activators So, the first way that we are going to look at is using activators. In order to activate the OS, you do not need to download various programs and the like. It is all initially included in the system. But in order for activation to be valid, a few conditions must be met 1. activate OS using patch file. In this case you will need to use patch file for activation. Install any patch on the computer with OS installed and launch it. After activating the computer, the system reboots and is ready for use. You can run the program using the shortcut on your desktop, from the folder with the patch, or through a special Norton 360 utility (available in the official store), which also has the ability to activate and test the software. If the program is not active, then try another way. To activate the OS, you need to go to the official website of Microsoft, select the necessary item there and follow the link. Then you need to click on the "Update Now" button and wait for the driver download to complete. Having downloaded the installation file, you need to place it in the right directory (preferably in the root of the drive), which you will then upload to your computer. Now you need to run the installation process, preferably open the installation file and wait for the process to finish. During the installation process it is advisable to turn off anti-virus software for a while, as it can interfere with the installation and make adjustments. Now restart your computer and you can get to work. If you accidentally deleted a file or folder, it does not mean that it will be deleted again from your computer. To recover what you have deleted, you need to use a special application. One such program is Recuva, which can recover deleted files in a matter of minutes. Before you run the application, familiarize yourself with its interface. Recuva interface After launching, a Recuva window will appear in front of you, displaying all your documents.
